Administrative Services Director Bitney Departing

Deborah Bitney Leaving to Pursue Long-Standing Personal Interests

Anchorage, AK – The Alaska Gasline Development Corporation (AGDC) announced today the resignation of Administrative Services Director Deborah Bitney who is departing to pursue long-standing personal and professional interests.

An early member of AGDC's management team, Bitney is responsible for the Corporation's internal administrative operations including all information technology, network administration, document control and risk management functions.

"I feel blessed to have had an opportunity to work with such a dynamic team and to have helped build this corporation from the ground up. AGDC has a truly unique mission with tremendous long-term significance to Alaskans" said Bitney. "I leave with mixed emotions, but after seven years of state service, I'm anxious to explore some other areas of interest".

"Deb has been critical to our success and a trusted member of my senior management team. Her extensive experience with the State of Alaska proved invaluable over the past 12 months as we reorganized from being a subsidiary of AHFC into an independent, public corporation", commented AGDC President Dan Fauske. "I hate to lose her, but wish her great success in her new endeavors".

Ms. Bitney joined AGDC in May 2013 from the Alaska Housing Finance Corporation (AHFC) where she was Administrative Officer. She served as Director of the Permanent Fund Dividend Division, Department of Revenue from 2007 to 2012. Bitney's final day will be May 23rd. A replacement has not been named.
